SECTION A

1. Critically discuss the way in which the work of J.S. Mills contributed to the modernization and democratization of liberalism. How substantial a change did this represent over prior 19th century liberal thought?

2. Assess the critique of capitalist society advanced by Karl Marx. Why is a knowledge of materialist dialectics critical if this critique is to be understood?

3. Critically analyze the controversy between Trotsky and Stalin over the theories of "permanent revolution" and "Socialism in one country".

4. How did Mao Tse-Tung theorise the justification for and viability of, a socialist revolution in China?

5. Critically discuss the differences between the nationalism of Adolph Hitler and the nationalism of Marcus Garvey.

SECTION B

6. Utilising the work of Amilcar Cabral, Aimé Césaire and at least one other major anti-colonial thinker, explain the main themes, considerations, and agenda of the anti-colonial movement.

7. Assess Frantz Fanon's Wretched of the Earth’s contribution to our understanding of the following: the role of violence under colonialism and in the liberation struggle, the pitfalls of national consciousness, and the role of the middle class in the colonial/postcolonial state.

8. Consider how the theories of Jacqui Alexander, Wendy Brown, and Chandra Mohanty make a case for gender as a critical tool in analyzing the modern western state.

Please turn over
9. How might debates on globalization and its implications benefit from the theories of neo-colonialism developed in the aftermath of colonial rule?

10. How does the current prison industrial complex add to, and complicate our understandings of the racial state in the world today?
