

Reflections

The main purpose of this public lecture series entitled Reflections, is to give these persons an opportunity to reflect on their working life experience and engage the general public on issues relating to their work experience (especially relevant to the work of the Institute). These individuals would be able to draw lessons from their own experiences and make recommendations for the future.

The Inaugural Reflections Lecture was held on 11 November 2005 and delivered by The Right Honourable Sir Lloyd Erskine Sandiford (former Prime Minister of Barbados).

The title of the lecture was "The Dismal Science of Economics: Reflections on Economic Policy Making in Barbados" and was held at The University of the West Indies, Cave Hill Campus.