ABOUT US

About The University of the West Indies (The UWI)

The University of the West Indies (UWI) is a multi-campus, regional university, primarily serving the English-speaking Caribbean with an increasing number of international students. It is an internationally accredited institution, comprising four (4) physical campuses - the Mona Campus in Jamaica, the St. Augustine Campus in Trinidad & Tobago, the Five Islands Campus in Antigua & Barbuda and the Cave Hill Campus in Barbados. The UWI also includes the Open Campus, which is an online campus with sites across the Caribbean region.

The UWI is recognised as the premier higher education institution in the Caribbean, with a reputation for excellence in teaching, research, and international outlook. Times Higher Education has ranked The UWI as the #1 university in the Caribbean, and among the top 1% of universities and colleges in Latin America.

A truly global institution, The UWI has established centres in collaboration with universities in North America, Latin America, Asia, Africa, and Europe.

About the Cave Hill Campus

Located on the beautiful Caribbean island of Barbados, the Cave Hill Campus is a fully accredited institution, comprising seven faculties, with discipline-specific academic departments, several research centres, and a School for Graduate Studies and Research.

Specifically, we offer bachelor and certificate programmes at the undergraduate level; diplomas, masters, and doctoral programmes at the postgraduate level; and professional development and continuing education courses.

Programmes for which the Campus enjoys a particularly strong international reputation for teaching and research include Medicine and Public Health, Law, Resource Management and Environmental Studies, Cultural Studies, Gender Studies, Education, History, Tourism and Hospitality, Business and Management, Accounting, and Economics, among others.

Over the past several years, the campus has focused heavily on expanding its graduate offerings. In 2021, Eduniversal (Global Rankings) ranked the campus' master's programmes in the Caribbean and Latin American region as follows:

Research, Training & Outreach Centres/Institutes

The campus has established centres of excellence in several fields, including:

- Centre for Biosecurity Studies - an interdisciplinary operation aimed at safeguarding the Caribbean against deliberate or unintentional threats to its biodiversity and ecosystem. The Centre coordinates initiatives aimed at reducing or eliminating biological threats that could adversely affect the Caribbean's way of life and destabilise regional economies.
- Centre for English Language Learning (CELL) - offers a range of specialist programmes for non-English speakers, and for teachers of English as a second language. Specialisations include Tourism, Sustainable Destination Management, Interpreting, Health Care and Teaching English to Speakers of Other Languages (TESOL). The courses are intensive, highly interactive and led by a dynamic team of teachers, who are all certified in the Teaching of English and Linguistics.
- Centre for Professional Development and Lifelong Learning (CPDLL) - provides an extensive range of educational programmes for professionals seeking to take their careers to the next level, as well as personal enrichment activities designed for adult learners who are in continuous pursuit of knowledge and personal advancement.
- Centre for Resource Management and Environmental Studies (CERMES) - promotes and facilitates sustainable development in the Caribbean and beyond.
- Errol Barrow Centre for Creative Imagination (EBCCI) - a premier teaching and performance facility, which supports academic training in the arts at the graduate and undergraduate levels, primarily in the areas of dance, film, theatre and music.
- George Alleyne Chronic Disease Research Centre (GA-CDRC) - conducts research in support of national and regional disease prevention and control policies and programmes. It contributes towards education and capacity building to strengthen disease prevention and control.
- Institute for Gender and Development Studies: Nita Barrow Unit (IGDS: NBU) - uses gender analysis to investigate material and ideological relations of gender affecting Caribbean women and men. It is particularly concerned about institutionalised gender inequalities for women.
- Sir Arthur Lewis Institute of Social and Economic Studies (SALISES) - focuses on economic and social development policy, as well as governance and public policy in the Caribbean and developing micro-states.

- Shridath Ramphal Centre for International Trade Law, Policy and Services (SRC) - builds the capacity of young professionals and key stakeholders to effectively interact and negotiate with global, regional and national institutions. It is a world-class centre for training, research and outreach on trade and development issues in the Caribbean and globally.
